Play by Premier

Georges Clemenceau
At French Theatre

The announcement that the French Theatre du Vieux Colombier is to present a play by Premier Georges Clemenceau during the week of November 11 will come as a distinct surprise to many, for it is not generally known in this country that in France he is regarded as a distinguished journalist, man of letters and novelist.

When still a very young man, and before opportunity was afforded him to actively enter into politics, he had written for a parish paper, "Le Français," for "La Depeche de Toulouse," and was editor of a weekly paper, "Le Bloc," which he wrote entirely himself, and in which he gave expression to those utterances which he was later given the opportunity to make through public speech.

At the age of twenty-four, disgusted with political conditions in France, he came to the United States, remaining here four years, and maintaining himself during that period as a teacher of literary history at a girls' school.

Returning to France, he pursued the practice of medicine. He was given his first public office during the revolution, in 1870, at the age of twenty-nine, and one of the duties which devolved upon him was that of distributing rations of bread, meat, water and fuel to 150,000 men. When France became a republic he was elected Mayor of Montmartre, and to the National Assembly. He came to the French Senate first in 1902.

From 1878 onward M. Clemenceau had under his direction the well known newspaper "La Justice," which figured in the Panama scandal of 1892, as a result of which he voluntarily exhibited his private accounts to convince the French public that he was not a wealthy man, nor one against whom a charge of graft could justly be sustained.

His father was a stern Republican and brought up his son in the Republican creed. He was not baptized, and received a free, non-religious education. It is from his father that he has inherited the strength, determination and firmness which are his marked characteristics.

"Le Voile du Bonheur" deals with Chinese life. It tells the story of a noble mandarin who is stricken blind, but made happy through the tender love of his wife, the deference of his son and the devotion of his friends. When suddenly sight is restored to him the veil is lifted from his eyes, and he realizes that all have been taking advantage of his blindness to deceive him. So Tchong-ling inflicts blindness on himself again so that he may once more be happy.

M. Clemenceau has for many years been a subscriber and supporter of the Vieux Colombier in Paris, and it was during his recent visit there that M. Gallimard, of that organization, obtained permission from the Premier to present the play here and make an English translation.

Largest American Flag
At The Hippodrome

Literally the crowning glory of Charles Dillingham's "Everything" at the Hippodrome, stretching its folds over the vast auditorium like a canopy of war time, is the largest American flag in the world. It gives a perpetual air of martial holiday to the big playhouse, and thousands of electric lights shining through its glowing colors speak eloquently of war and victory.

The flag was made during the past summer in Chicago by 500 men and girls in the employ of the royal tailors there, who dedicated it to the memory of their many fellow workers who had marched away with the colors.

For many weeks they devoted their spare time to the construction of the flag which measures 80 feet by 160 and covers nearly one-third of an acre when it is unfurled. The girls cut and bound the enormous stars, which measure 6 1/2 feet from tip to tip, while the men put the stripes together.

The flag was unfurled with impressive ceremonies at the opening of the United States War Exposition at Grant Park, Chicago, on Labor Day. At the close of the exposition the flag was passed on to the committee in charge of the Fourth Liberty Loan drive in New York, and was hung by them in the main concourse of the Grand Central Station during the two weeks of the campaign.

And then, because the Hippodrome is the largest playhouse in the world and the amusement centre of America, drawing its patrons from all corners of the country, the owners decided that it should hang there for the next three months as a stirring appeal to patriotism.

For a time it looked as though the great playhouse had more than met its match, for the flag was too big to be used as a curtain, and draped about the proscenium arch it lost much of its dignity and beauty. So it was finally decided to use it as a canopy, and while the orchestra played "The Star-Spangled Banner" the huge emblem was recently raised to its place, where it will remain until spring.

Golden Crook Company
At Columbia This Week

The popular Golden Crook organization, with Bill Arlington at its head, will come to the Columbia Theatre this week and present a new two-act burlesque called "Then, Now and Here." It was written by Abe Leavitt, with music by Jack Strauss and Ruby Cohen.

An Extraordinary Capture of Imported Lacet Arabian Curtains
$9.75 a Pair :: To-day's Value $13.50 or More

SOME DAYS AGO we discovered in an importer's stock a quantity of exceptionally handsome and fine imported Lacet Arabian Lace Curtains—a quality not readily to be secured in these days at any price.

Yet these particular Curtains were able to buy at a price that would have been moderate over a year ago—today's value for them is $13.50 to $15 a pair.

Two patterns, with rich, wide lace insertions and attractive lace edges. Two patterns with extra wide lace edges. One style 2 1/2 yards long and the others 3 yards long. We consider them a most unusual value at $9.75 a pair.

Lacet Arabian and Marie Antoinette Panel Curtains

SELECTED SILKS, well chosen colors, carefully discriminated style, ample dimensions—in these specifications lies the story of unusual values. Of fine quality tulle and silks, in the straight line effect and some with flare flounces. Others in tailored styles in bright and dark changeable effects; also two pretty pleated models, some in solid colors; others in changeable effects.

All Jersey Petticoats with plain flounce edged with pleated flounce.

In black, white, pearl, purple and navy.

Second Floor.

$2.75 Housedresses
of Gingham, $1.95

FOR WINTER house wear gingham easily leads in fabrics. Closest woven of cottons, it not only wears excellently well, but offers most protection against the cold. This fine purchase is therefore especially in season, an economy specially acceptable now.

One style in pink, blue or lavender-striped gingham is made with vestee of plain chambray and collar and cuffs trimmed with bands of the same.

Another is of the style which sold quickest in our last sale at $1.95, made with pretty white collar, hand-embroidered in colors and front of side-button effect. In blue, pink, tan and lavender; sizes 36 to 44.

Other New Styles at $3.95 and $5

At $3.95. Tailored effects, with convertible or V neck waists, of corded gingham in gray, green, blue or lavender. Many are trimmed with pipings of white or colored bands of chambray. Others are the "Billie Burke" straight line effects, with yoke front and box waists below.

At $5. Five new styles of effective simplicity, in pretty gingham of the staple colors, or in three-color stripes. Never before fronts, new tailored collars. All have separate belts and pearl buttons and are exceptionally well made.

Second Floor, Livingston Street.

Women's Tuxedo Sweaters
$5.95, Value $8.95

MANUFACTURER'S CLEAN-UP, bringing an exceptionally good chance for gift buying.

Of a fine grade of wool in the popular Tuxedo style. The bodies of these Sweaters are in rose, white, coral, reseda and lavender, with cuffs and front of white. All fasten at the waistline with worsted girdle finished with colored pom-poms.

Sizes 34 to 40.

Zephyr Coat Sweaters, $10

Of a particularly soft wool in the link stitch in blue, turquoise, purple and white.

Second Floor.

$4.98 Rich Cut Glass
Orange Bowls, $2.98

Another Brilliant Loeser Value

A PIECE of cut glass incomparably finer than $2.98 will ordinarily buy today—a value, indeed, that will not be obtainable when the number we have are gone.

The Bowl is a large one of oval shape, cut all over in a brilliantly sparkling design of combined floral and deep miter cutting. The blank is of clear, heavy crystal; the workmanship beautifully precise; the cutting deep and the entire piece something clearly beyond duplication, with conditions as they are today.

If you want a marvelously fine gift to put away, a splendid piece of Cut Glass for very little money, be here early tomorrow to get one of these!
